Workshop on

“Socio-Economic Mobility and the Middle Class in Latin America”

World Bank / Fundación Privada de Economía Analítica / IAE

Campus de Bellaterra, Barcelona.

12-13 September 2011

OBJECTIVES

This two-day workshop, jointly organized by the Institut d'Anàlisi Econòmica through the and the World Bank and coordinated by the Fundación Privada de Economía Analítica, aims to discuss analytical work on the nature and causes of socio-economic mobility in Latin America and the Caribbean. Within that context, it also hopes to discuss the rise of the middle class, which has been argued to have accompanied recent declines in both poverty and inequality in a number of countries in the region. The workshop combines presentations from an ongoing World Bank study of this topic; academic papers selected from a competitive call; and invited presentations from distinguished experts in the field.
