The Spanish National Research Council (CSIC) has opened the application process for two positions at the Institute for Economic Analysis:

- one position for a Tenured Scientist (Científico Titular) and
- one position for a Scientific Researcher (Investigador Científico).

These positions are funded as civil servants, offering a permanent employment contract with full coverage and social security and retirement benefits. The application deadline is March 24, 2023.

Candidates:

- must be Spanish or of any other EU nationality;
 - must be in possession of a doctoral degree, either Spanish or with an official 'equivalency'.
- Successful candidates are expected to develop a long-term scientific career, conduct independent research, attract competitive funding, and establish their own research groups or join existing ones in a relevant role.

Applications from women are particularly welcome.

The calls with information and instructions about the application process can be found in the official Spanish bulletin (BOE):
